

We believe in inclusion.

Everyone—no matter who they are, where they come from, how much they have, or how they identify—deserves justice.

We believe in fairness.

Justice is only possible when everyone can access the legal system based on their needs, life circumstances, and challenges.

We believe in advocacy.

Representing vulnerable people with respect and dignity levels the playing field and makes sure the law protects everyone.

We can help you.

How we can help:

We help individual clients with a broad range of services including housing rights, consumer advocacy, family law, immigration, and access to health care, public benefits, and education. We also work to challenge unlawful policies, procedures, and practices that prevent at-risk residents from improving their lives.

If you need legal help and can't afford it, we may be able to offer education, advice, assistance with negotiations, or represent you in court.
